Ever since he lost his feathers, this bald eagle has felt as though he had nothing left to lose in boldly going where no bald eagle has gone before. So when he saw an opportunity to get back at the cougar that frightened him and his friends in their youth, he went there. The cougar was just about to clean his pile of old dishes when the eagle swooped in. He courageously stomped down on the cougar's soap, leaving him dawnless. He stared down the bully from his childhood with a gaze that simply said, "That's right. I went there."
